Gateway to Denmark helps foreign companies over the first hurdle when they decide to establish a new company or branch in Denmark. We arrange for registrations and permits and manage the company on a daily basis until the company's own employees are ready and able to take over.

This way, the company get up and going much faster and safer, because it eliminates the possibility of errors and mistakes due to lack of knowledge of local regulations and language.

Legal

- Immigration law
- Law on leaseholds
- Acquisitions of real property
- Permits and Registrations
- Contracts
- Employment law
- Debt collection

The rules on immigration matters are complex and constantly changing. We deal with this area every day, and are constantly updated.

We have a growing number of inquiries on refusals of applications for residence and work permit, permanent residence, citizenship and family reunification. We may appeal such decision to the relevant authorities on behalf of our clients, if we find that the decision is based on a wrong basis or a misinterpretation of the rules and that it is highly likely that we can win the case.

On the following pages we have compiled an overview of our expertise and services and about who we are. For 15 years we have helped international companies and expats from around the world make it much easier to be mobile.

5 good reasons

1 Cost, labour, time

If expatriation is to be handled professionally and efficiently the companies must realise that it is a time consuming task for the human resources department and quite different from handling domestic employment cases. Hence a current staff in charge of relocations is necessary which implies a certain volume of expatriates.

2 Stronger image of your company as a global employer

With a global workforce the possibilities to attract the best employees in the world are increasing. Human resources policies are becoming a very strategic tool because it is becoming increasingly clear that you cannot attract and keep the best employees with money alone. As the company is often the key to Denmark, dissatisfaction with staying in Denmark is often due to failure in the way the company has handled the expatriation.

3 Faster adoption - faster effort at work

The list of practical needs to be taken care of in the initial phase of expatriation is long. The larger the family, the more things to worry about. This can occupy the mind of the expatriate for a long time and distract his concentration from the work he is here to do. Both the employee and the spouse are very dependent on all the help they get.

4 Minimises the risk of making mistakes

Some companies have few expatriates. Consequently, the frequency of doing the necessary work is very low and the risk of making mistakes larger, as the company has no routine.

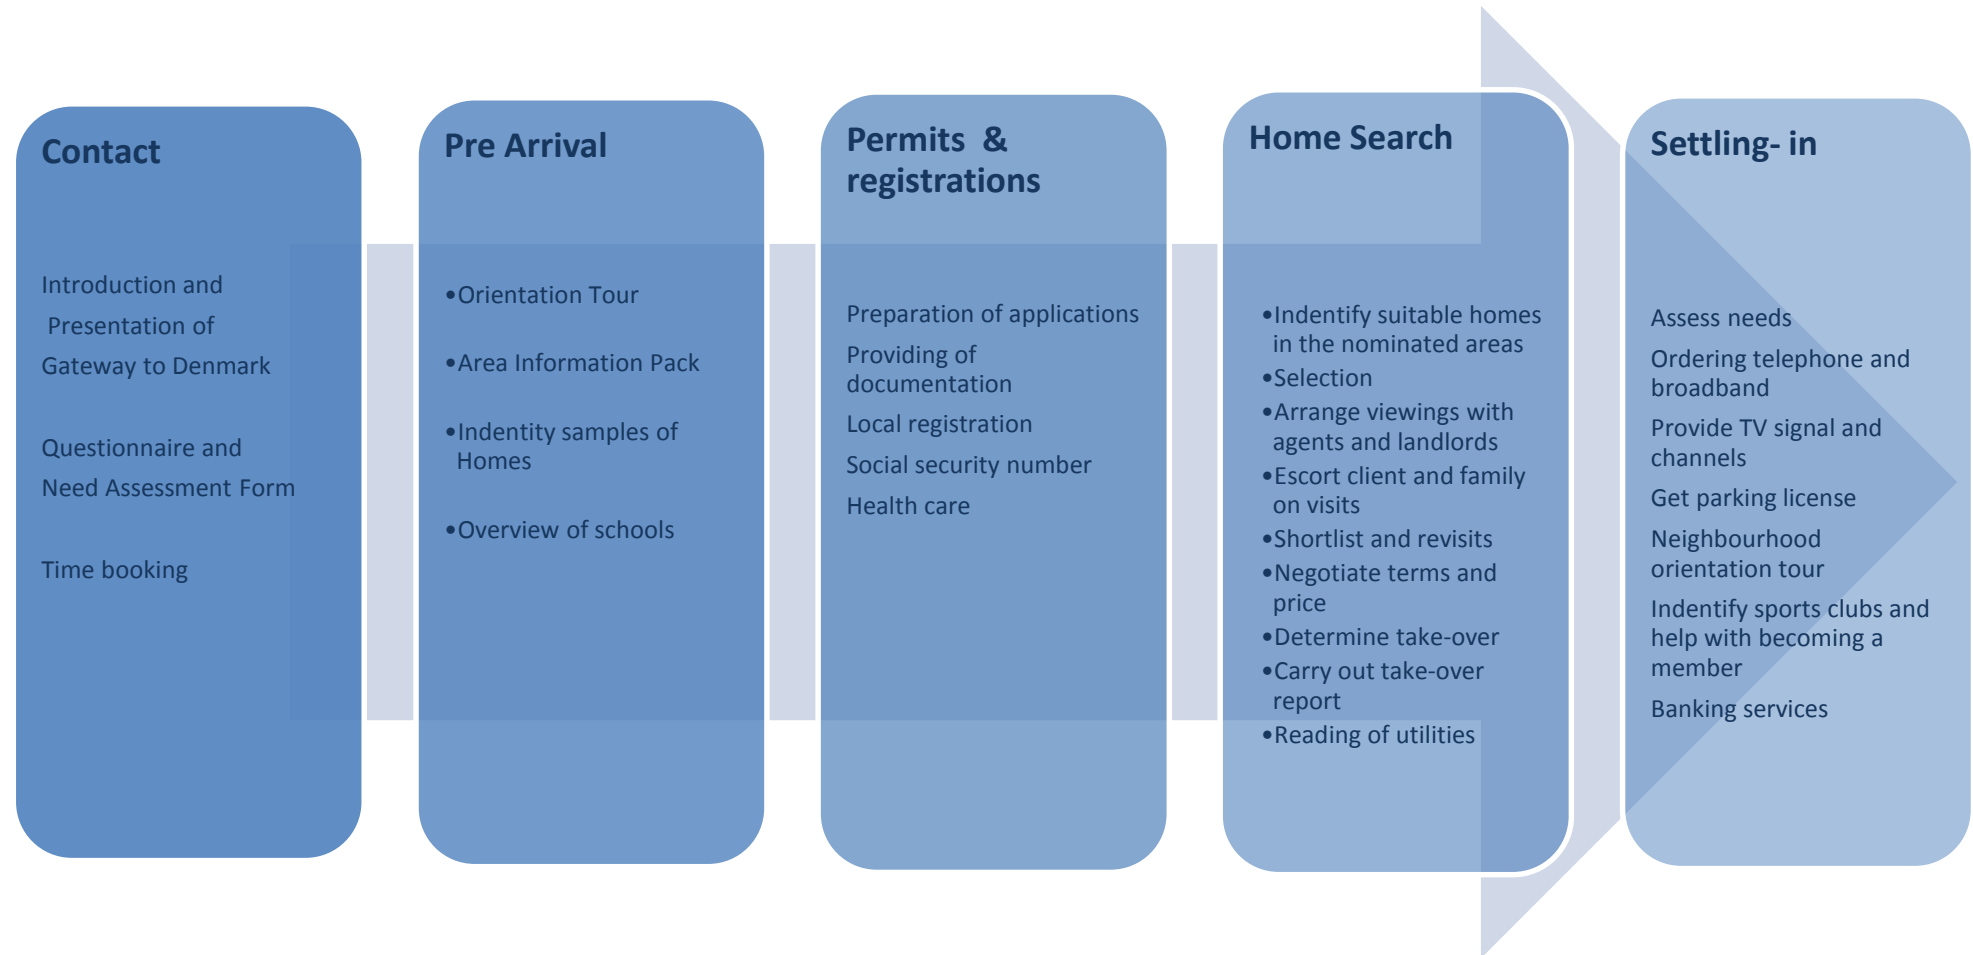

5 Secure privacy for the expatriate and family

In hiring a relocation agent the company ensures some privacy for the family. Some issues are easier discussed with a more neutral party than the human resources manager at the work place.

Gateway to Denmark makes a difference

Permits and registrations

We are members of the The Danish Agency for Labour Retention and International Recruitment (DAR) Business Forum. This means that we are constantly being updated on new regulations and changes in procedures. At the same time it allows us to propose DAR improvements and changes in the system, which can contribute to a faster and smoother processing. We have a contact person with DAR, which means a lot to get files safely, quickly and easily through the system and many issues can be resolved in this manner at once - both in general and in concrete cases.

We also have ongoing dialogue with the State administration and the City of Copenhagen on case management. Moreover, we can now book an appointment if we want both residence permits and Cpr. numbers in one take. All to save time. We also have a contact person at a senior level in Copenhagen Citizen Service.

Housing

There are many pitfalls for foreigners in the housing market when they must act and find a suitable dwelling themselves. First, they know nothing of the residential areas, and nothing about their rights and, last but not least, they do not understand Danish.

All these factors can be eliminated by leaving it to Gateway to Denmark to find the home and review the lease before the contract is concluded. In addition to reviewing legal contracts, we negotiate price and terms, review the lease before and after ensuring that conditions are registered and meters are read etc.

Banking and insurance

We have a longstanding relationship with banks in Denmark without in any way being bound by this relationship, which enable us to book meetings to establish a new bank account etc. wherever in Denmark it is. This way we waste no time, and it is more personal and confidential to discuss your financial affairs when you can sit comfortably without a lot of people around and talk to a banker.

Here we also discuss the need for insurance (contents, accident, car etc.) And our clients are always informed that they can get more offers if they wish and are otherwise free to choose.

Transport and shopping, etc.

There is hardly a foreign family or individual who does not at some point come home with yogurt instead of milk or vice versa.

Depending on the package of services visiting to supermarket, the post office and a train station is included and we review the most important circumstances when shopping, sending letters and packages, find your way around in the transport zone system in relation to price and cards and more.

Special needs for families with children

Whether a family has children on arrival or has a family expansion on the way and will give birth while they are in Denmark, there is particular need for help with all the practicalities.

Birth

We have prepared a guidebook for women who are going to give birth while in Denmark. The earlier in the relocation process a birth takes place in Denmark, the greater the need is to ensure that both the expectant mother and father understand the process and know their rights.

Schools and day care centers

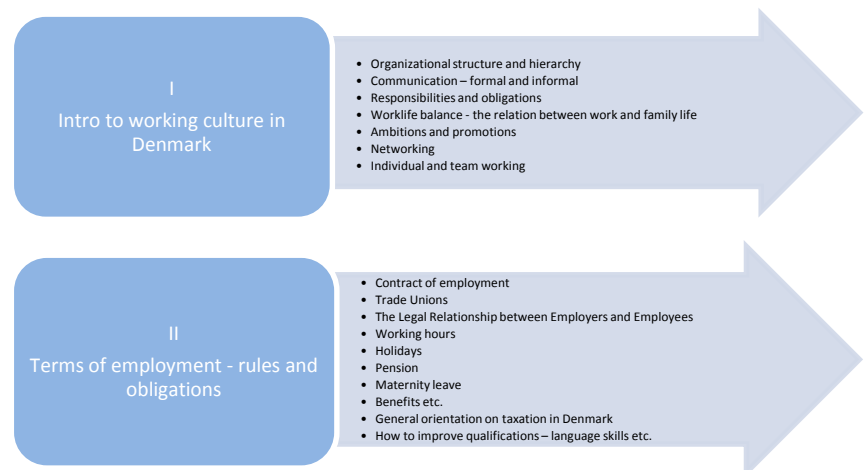

We know all the international schools and they know Gateway to Denmark. We are constantly updated on how the international schools evolve and what their current capacity is at different levels (grades), and we are invited to meetings with the schools twice a year on average. Like schools daycare institutions are both municipal and private international nurseries and kindergartens. Some international schools also offer kindergarten, while others will not admit until children are age of 5 years.

Jobs for the accompanying spouse

One of the most important factors to keep key employees in their job here is that their families also feel at home in Denmark.

Gateway to Denmark has successfully developed an effective Spouse Career Program for spouses seeking jobs in Denmark.
